Township Councillors to attend sessions on broad new powers

By Jim Prince

Township Councillors to attend sessions on broad new powers.

For many first time municipal councillors, getting oneself elected to office was a huge challenge, but now the newly minted heads of the municipality are faced with the real complexities of local government.

The task is seemingly a daunting one as almost immediately, new councillors find themselves dealing with a myriad of issues and laws, some of which govern how they must act and carry out their responsibilities on behalf of those who elected them and the community at large.

Following each municipal election in the province, the powerful Association of Municipalities of Ontario, which represents most of the provinces five hundred municipalities, including Chapleau, stages a series of training sessions for new and repeat members of councils.

One such session will be staged in Timmins at the end of this month and, at press time, at least three Township Councillors have indicated they will attend.

Veteran councillor Keith "Bud"

Swanson along with Deputy Mayor André Byham and Councillor Doug Greig, who is entering his first year as councillor will all make the trip to attend the two days of training and information sessions.

While this will not be the first session in municipal governance for Deputy Mayor Byham and councillor Swanson, wholesale changes to the Ontario Municipal Act have given renewed importance to their attendance this year.

Councillor Swanson, who noted he first attended a familiarization session as a rookie ten years ago said it is a really good program. "Absolutely. It was very helpful," stated Councillor Swanson. Councillor Greig said that he too, was looking forward to the sessions.

At the same time, Councillor Swanson said of particular interest to him this time are the many changes to the Municipal Act, which has been the final word on how municipalities govern themselves.

Those changes which effectively provide local councils with broad new powers, affect everything from governance and accountability to the management of local boards and economic development, a prime interest to the new Chapleau Council, came in an announcement by the provincial government at the start of the new year.

"Today is a milestone for Ontario municipalities," said Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister John Gerretsen in announcing the changes January 1st. "Through this legislation, the McGuinty government and our municipal partners are beginning a new era in which local governments across Ontario have new powers and more autonomy reflective of their status as mature, responsible governments."

The Municipal Statute Law Amendment Act, 2006 recognizes municipalities as responsible, accountable governments. The broader powers enable municipalities to better determine the appropriate mechanisms for delivering municipal services to their communities.

"This is a noteworthy and welcomed piece of legislation," said Doug Reycraft, President of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario. "It encompasses a new accountability framework that sees the end to the one-size-fits-all, over-legislating and over-regulating provincial approach that has hindered municipal governments in the past."

Municipal governments now have broader powers to pass bylaws ranging from local governance structure to the economic, social and environmental well being of their communities to the protection of persons and property, including consumer protection.

The act ensures that local councils are accountable to the public and that the processes for making decisions are transparent.

Municipalities can now have a more effective accountability regime with the authority to establish an integrity commissioner, ombudsman, auditor general and lobbyist registrar.

"Today's proclamation of these amendments to the Municipal Act, 2001 allows local governments across the province to better respond to their citizens' needs," said Gerretsen. "The McGuinty government believes that by strengthening our municipalities, we are making Ontario stronger."

The Municipal Statute Law Amendment Act, 2006, which was proclaimed in force January 1st, replaces prescribed or specific powers with broad permissive powers for municipalities. The intent is to provide municipal governments with more flexibility in meeting their communities' expectations and fulfilling their responsibilities.

OPP Black & White Cruisers on Patrol Again

(ST.THOMAS, ON) Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) officers will soon be patrolling Ontario roadways and communities in the traditional black and white police car, adding greater visibility and instant recognition to OPP general duty and traffic patrol.

Community Safety and Correctional Services Minister Monte Kwinter joined OPP Commissioner Julian Fantino and Ford Motor Company of Canada St. Thomas Assembly Plant Manager Mark Boldin to unveil the new OPP black and white Crown Victoria cruiser being built in St. Thomas.

"We welcome the return of the traditional black and white cruisers," said Minister Kwinter. "Their enhanced visibility on Ontario's major highways will add significantly to the safe driving message we want to reinforce with the motoring public. We support the OPP and the important work police officers are doing to keep our communities safe," added Minister Kwinter.

The black and white cruisers will provide a distinctive presence to OPP stepped-up efforts to make Ontario highways safer and to bring traffic safety issues in line with other important public safety issues and concerns.

"Officer and public safety are the primary concerns," said Commissioner Fantino.

"The black and white patrol vehicle will be instantly recognizable as an OPP patrol car and, with the new LED high visibility roof lights and vehicle markings, will have a greater impact on the visibility of OPP vehicles patrolling our communities and our roadways," added Commissioner Fantino.

TRIBUNE LIBRE

Je vous remercie de me laisser exprimer mon opinion concernant la décision du comité du Festival de la nature.

Plusieurs personnes croient que la raison majeure de ne pas avoir de festival est le fait que le Centre culturel Louis-Hémon ne sera pas un partenaire.

En tant que membre du comité du festival, je tiens à ce que les gens de la communauté se rendent compte que la décision de ne pas avoir de festival cette année est entièrement celle du comité du festival. Le conseil municipal a ensuite entériné cette décision.

Les raisons telles que mentionnées dans l'article de votre journal sont véritables. Le comité est épuisé et il est d'autant plus difficile de présenter des artistes de haut calibre avec le budget actuel. Pendant l'année, le comité révisera et adaptera le festival selon la réalité économique actuel qui en passant a changé énormément depuis cinq ans.

Le Centre culturel Louis-Hémon a déménagé à l'école secondaire suite à un partenariat avec le Conseil scolaire catholique du Nouvel-Ontario. Le dossier étant volumineux et pour bien mener à terme le projet, le Centre a donc décidé de ne pas renouveler son partenariat avec la municipalité pour la 6e édition du festival. Le Centre n'est pas responsable de la décision du comité.

Je voudrais remercier les bénévoles, les membres du comité, le personnel du festival et tous ceux qui ont participé au festival à chaque année.

Merci beaucoup
 Diane Jean

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thank you for allowing me to express my point of view on the decision of the Festival Steering Committee not to have a Nature Festival as mentioned in last week's edition of the Chapleau Express.

As the coordinator of the Centre Culturel it was brought up to my attention that most people think that the major reason for not having the Chapleau Nature Festival was due to the Centre Culturel Louis-Hémon's decision not to be a partner in this year's event.

The Centre would not be a partner in the 2007 edition of the Chapleau Nature Festival because of our present situation requiring our outmost attention. Our move to the school will permit us to reach our goals and ensure the Centres' long and successful existence.

As a member of the Festival Steering Committee I would like the community to know that the Festival Steering Committee made the decision to cancel this year's Festival and that the Township Council approved it. The major reasons for the cancellation includes a burnt out committee and a lack of current big name Canadian performers.

The committee has, in the meantime, decided to revise and adjust the format to better reflect our local economic situation. Large companies such as Tembec and Canadian Pacific Railway, local business and even non profit organization have to make adjustment to this new reality.

To quote the newspaper article "Door left open for the future", let's wait and see.

I would like to personally thank all who have been a part of the Nature Festival over the last five years: volunteers, steering committee members, staff and to all of you who have attended the Festival year after year.

To the people of the community: We never realize we have a good thing until we lose it.
 Thank You
 Diane Jean

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A comment was made in the January 13 issue of the Chapleau Express by Mayor Earle Freeborn regarding the Chapleau Northern Pike Fishing Derby and his concerns with fishing on the portion of the Chapleau River upstream of the CPR bridge around the municipal water treatment plant. "I am against fishing up there, stated Mayor Earle Freeborn, anything to do with the water supply, I'm against."

With that being said, it is hard to fathom that a one day, 9 hour fishing derby could be potentially so detrimental to the town's water supply. If the Mayor is so concerned about a few holes being cut in the ice and people angling affecting the town water supply he should take a trip upstream to see the wood waste decay bi-products and who knows how many other pollutants leaching into the river from the various mill and co-generation yards after a heavy rainfall or during spring run-off.

The refuelling of motor boats, commercial floatplanes, and the heavily used main snowmobile trail that crosses the Chapleau River only within metres of the water treatment plant must not be any concern to the quality of the drinking water.

After the Walkerton incident of May 2000, I can see the Mayors concern over water quality for the citizens of Chapleau but I find it hard to believe a 9 hour ice fishing derby would pose more of a threat to the township water supply than years of pollutants leaching and washing into the supply just upstream. Concern should be directed at making positive changes in slowing the pollution upstream and cleaning up what is already there.

Thank you Mr. Editor for this space to express my thoughts and concerns.

Thank You,
 Antony Jaworski

Chapleau Public School healthy snack program

Healthy Eating is important to people of all ages, but it is particularly important to the well-being of children and teens. Well nourished children and teens are more likely to be better prepared to learn, be active and maintain their health as adults.

With this in mind, Chapleau Public School and the Chapleau Northwood Heart Health Coalition are organizing a "Healthy Snack" Program. From January 15th to

February 9th all students are encouraged to bring healthy snacks to school. Throughout the month all students will have an opportunity to participate in various nutrition activities. Robin Greer, Registered Dietician, and Mary Boucher, Public Health Nurse, will be assisting with the program.

The program started off with a healthy snack for all students, provided by our School Council, and prepared by our LEAD Class. The month will end with with a "Fruity Friday" celebration.

Study concludes that bilingualism may delay onset of dementia

Lifelong bilingualism can help delay the onset of dementia symptoms by four years, Canadian researchers have found.

Patients who were fluent in two or more languages reported dementia symptoms on average about four years after people who spoke only one language, said principal investigator Ellen Bialystok.

Bialystok, a psychology professor at York University, says the researchers are "pretty dazzled" by the results.

Bilingualism may help to stave off cognitive decline because of the mental agility necessary to juggle them in day-to-day life, researchers said.

The study, conducted by researchers with the Rotman Research Institute at the Baycrest Research Centre for Aging and the Brain in Toronto, is published in the February 2007 issue of Neuropsychologia.

"Our study found that speaking two languages throughout one's life appears to be associated with a delay in the onset of symptoms of dementia by four years compared to those who speak one language," said Bialystok, also an associate scientist at the Rotman Research Institute.

The study followed on the heels of previous reports from Bialystok and colleagues showing bilingualism enhances attention and cognitive control in both children and older adults.

Those results compelled Bialystok and her research team to wonder what this would mean for the onset of dementia.

Researchers examined the diagnostic records of 184 Toronto-area patients who came to Baycrest's Sam and Ida Ross Memory Clinic between 2002 and 2005 with cognitive complaints.

Of those patients, 91 were monolingual and 93 were bilingual.

The bilingual speakers spoke a combination of 25 different languages, the most prevalent being Polish, Yiddish, German, Romanian and Hungarian.

Researchers found 132 patients met criteria for probable Alzheimer's while the remaining 52 were diagnosed with other dementias.

The researchers determined that the mean age of onset of dementia symptoms in the monolingual group was 71.4 years, while the bilingual group was 75.5 years.

This gap remained even after considering the possible effect of other lifestyle factors such as cultural differences, immigration, formal education, employment and gender.

"There are no pharmacological interventions that are this dramatic" in delaying symptoms, said neurologist Dr. Morris Freedman, who is head of the Division of Neurology, and director of the Memory Clinic at Baycrest.

"The data show a huge protective effect," adds co-investigator and psychologist Fergus Craik, an expert on age-related changes in memory processes.

Craik cautioned that this is a preliminary study but aligned with other recent findings about lifestyle effects on dementia.

The team is working on a follow-up study that will further examine bilingualism and dementia onset.

The study was funded by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research.

Ontario government raises minimum wage

Increase Helps Lowest-Paid And Most Vulnerable Workers

TORONTO, Jan. 3 /CNW/ - The Ontario government is raising the minimum wage on February 1, 2007, for the fourth time since taking office, Labour Minister Steve Peters announced today.

"We are providing Ontario's lowest-paid and most vulnerable workers with the fourth increase in the minimum wage in four years," said Peters. "It is to Ontario's economic advantage to see that our workers are paid a fair wage."

The general minimum wage will be raised to $8.00 per hour on February 1, 2007. This is the final increase in a four-year initiative that began

February 1, 2004, at which time the government undertook to raise the minimum wage for the first time since 1995. It was phased in over a four-year period to allow Ontario business time to adjust and remain competitive.

Other minimum wage rates will also increase on February 1, 2007. The minimum wage for:

- Students under 18 years old and employed for not more than 28 hours a week during the school year or employed during a school holiday, will rise from $7.25 to $7.50 per hour

- Liquor servers will increase from $6.75 to $6.95 per hour

- Hunting and fishing guides currently paid a minimum of $38.75 for less than five consecutive hours in a day and $77.50 for five or more hours in a day (whether or not the hours are consecutive) will also increase to $40.00 and $80.00 respectively.

"The increase is part of the McGuinty government's investment in people," said Peters. "By phasing in the minimum wage increases, we can help these workers benefit from Ontario's economic growth while keeping Ontario businesses competitive."

The first OPP black and white cruisers will be patrolling high traffic areas of the 400 series highways by the beginning of March 2007. The full roll out will follow the normal replacement schedule for general patrol vehicles, returning the OPP fleet of patrol vehicles to the traditional black and white configuration over the next two and a half years.

The reintroduction of the traditional look cruisers coincides with the renewed OPP focus on traffic safety, in particular aggressive targeting of the inappropriate actions of dangerous drivers who compromise public and officer safety.

"The distinctiveness of the black and white cruiser makes it a high visibility feature of the directed enforcement program that is part of our all-out focus on traffic safety," explained Commissioner Fantino.

Higher visibility and public recognition of black and white police car markings are factors that contribute to improved officer and public safety in traffic enforcement and general patrol duties.

"We appreciate Ford of Canada's support for this initiative and are pleased that the first OPP black and whites are coming off the line here," said Commissioner Fantino.

Mark Boldin, plant manager, Ford St. Thomas Assembly Plant said, "It makes everyone at St. Thomas Assembly feel proud to know that approximately 80 percent of police vehicles across North America are built right here in St. Thomas."

Over the years, the OPP has used several variations of the black and white tradition. In 1989, the all-white cruisers with blue and gold striping were initiated and by 1993, the black and white vehicles were completely phased out.

The OPP maintains a fleet of approximately 1,200 general patrol cars.

CHADWIC HOME, FAMILY RESOURCE CENTRE

Offers shelter, emotional support, and information for women and their children who are in crisis situations. We have a Toll Free Crisis Line which is staffed 24 hours a day. We can arrange for free transportation to the Centre for women who live in the Algoma/Chapleau area. We also offer support to women who live in the communities of Chapleau, White River, Dubreuilville, and Hornepayne through our Outreach Program. Our Outreach Worker travels to those communities to meet with women who need emotional support as well as information about their rights and options. If you need to speak with the Outreach Worker when she is in your community, you can call the Centre at any time to set up an appointment. You do not need to be a resident of the Centre in order to use our services. If you need someone to talk to or if you just need someone to listen, call our Toll Free Crisis line at 1-800-461-2242 or you can drop in at the Centre. We are here for you.
