Canadian Hot Rod Tour contingent visits Chapleau

On Friday July 20th, customers at Syd's Esso Service Centre were treated to an impromptu Classic Car Show as members of the Canadian Hot Rod Tour stopped to eat and gas up their vehicles.

Al and Sue

Taylor, Paul and Kari Richer, and Allen Luxton were part of the Timmins contingent.

By participating in the Canadian Hot Rod Tour and putting their "wheels in motion", they have an opportunity to raise funds for Wheels In Motion, a program of The Rick Hansen Man In Motion Foundation, to help improve the quality of life of people living with spinal cord injury.

Funds will be generated in two ways: through registrations and through pledges gathered by Tour participants. To facilitate this, an online donation system was established. As well, donation forms are available by online download. Participants are under no obligation to raise funds through pledges. However, this is a terrific opportunity to utilize the quality of our lives to help improve the quality of lives of others.

The following vehicles were registered to participate by the Timmins contingent: 1957 Chevrolet 210, 1969 Camaro SS, 1956 Chevrolet Nomad, 1970 1/2 Chevrolet Camaro SS RS, 1969 Chevrolet Camaro Z28, 1955 Pontiac Laurentian 2-dr., 1968 Camaro, 1995 Chevrolet Impala SS, 2006 Ford Mustang.

The first leg of the Canadian Hot Rod Tour kicked off from Vaughan, near Toronto, Ontario. The tour of vintage and modified vehicles will travel to Langley, British Columbia, where several participants will proceed to Victoria to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the 1932 Ford at Northwest Deuce Day.

The tour will run from Vaughan to Sudbury, Ontario on the first day; subsequent legs will go to Sault Ste. Marie, Thunder Bay and Kenora, Ontario; Brandon, Manitoba; Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan; Medicine Hat and Calgary, Alberta; and Kamloops and Langley, B.C.

The public is welcome to meet and greet with the group all along the route, and participants are encouraged to join in and drive any portion of the route.

Theft of Copper Wire

In an effort to curb copper wire thefts across the North East Region, the Ontario Provincial Police is working closely with commercial businesses, Crown corporation facilities, and mining operations to increase security in response to the growing number of incidents. Potential sites for copper wire thefts will be the subject of increased police surveillance and patrols.

Increases in the market price of scrap copper have resulted in a substantial increase in these thefts. Selling scrap copper is a cash business regulated by few by-laws and no provincial legislation.

The theft of copper wire often involves cutting of power lines, removal of grounding wires and entry to private facilities that result in a significant safety risk to employees, members of the public and to the culprits.

Police will be seeking maximum sentences for anyone convicted of stealing copper wire.

In the event you are a victim of a theft: - Call police immediately. The OPP can be reached 24 hours a day, seven days a week at 1-888-310-1122.

- Do not disturb the theft site until examination by police for potential evidence that will assist in identifying the thieves.

If you have any information relating to any crime please call CrimeStoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

Gardening from the ground up

Just Mowing the Lawn...

By Mary Lynne Ivey-Mountjoy Believe it or not, there is some science to having a perfect lawn. Mowing is a major part of lawn maintenance, and how it is done will affect the health of your grass.

Unlike most plants, grasses grow from the bottom, pushing upwards, rather than sprouting new growth from the top. When you cut grass, you are trimming away the older, tougher growth, leaving new, tender growth exposed. Cutting too much off at once leaves the tender part of the plant open to damage. For best results, when you mow a lawn, never remove more than 1/3 of the length. In other words, if your mower blade is set to 3 inches, you should cut your grass before it is 5 inches long.

Keeping your grass slightly long rather than golf-green short (ie. Setting your mower blades to their highest rather than lowest setting) is one way of reducing how much time you spend mowing, as many species of grass found in lawn mixtures are low-growing and will slow their growth after the first few inches. Slightly longer lawns are also more resistant to dryness.

Regular trimming encourages grass to send up new shoots, making a lawn thicker and more resilient. Properly trimmed grass will also be healthier and more resistant to damage and disease. Trimming too much off at once weakens the grass, but so does rough trimming.

Keep mower blades sharp and clean to avoid ripped, brown ends on the grass. The cleaner the cut, the better it heals, and the less chance there is for dieback or infection. Cleanly cut grass also looks fresh and green, without any browning on the tips. Strimmers should only be used around the edges, as the spinning cord tends to tear rather than cut the grass. Rotary mowers (with blades that spin underneath like a fan) are the most common type, but reel mowers (with blades on a cylinder that turns against a cutting bar) give a much cleaner cut.

Cutting little and often also avoids the problem of thick piles of cuttings left behind. If left on the lawn, long cuttings will smother the grass underneath, leaving brown patches. Short cuttings can either be collected for composting, or left as "thatch" for the grass. There are arguments for and against either choice. Thatching acts as a mulch, retaining moisture and adding nutrients to the soil, but if it gets too thick, the thatch can block out moisture and sunlight. You can compromise either by only occasionally leaving the trimmings, or by leaving them after every cutting and then burning off the dead grass early each spring.

Just cutting the grass will get the job done, but if you want a perfect lawn, there is a right and a wrong way to mow!

Offers shelter, emotional support, and information for women and their children who are in crisis situations. We have a Toll Free Crisis Line which is staffed 24 hours a day. We can arrange for free transportation to the Centre for women who live in the Algoma/Chapleau area.
