Chapleau celebrates Canada's 140th

Mrs. Rail showing interest in the sewing area display manned by Dawn Morin.

Once again Canada Day in Chapleau was deemed a success despite a low attendance at most planned activities.

As an added feature the Chapleau Heritage Museum's 40th proved to be very popular with the crowd. Upwards of 200 visitors showed up to visit the revamped displays and photos of the olden days.

The Museum committee members must be commended on a job well done.

Door prizes and a new and improved museum helped spark the interest. A continuous flow of interested parents, grandparents and children paraded in and out of the Museum's door from 11:00 a.m to 3:00 p.m.

All seemed very appreciative of the efforts put forth in improving our local tourist attraction.

The ever popular "Duck" race was put on again this year by the Odd-fellows. This yearly fundraiser seems to get everyone involved. This year's grand prize winner of $1000.00 was our own Mayor Earle J. Freeborn. Congratulations to the winner and to all the volunteers that organized the event.

The weekend was crowned with a very impressive display of fireworks sponsored by the Township of Chapleau.

All in all, people that did participate in the planned events seemed to have enjoyed it.

Success in events such as this depend on the participation of everyone

Museum committee members, Micheal Levesque, Dawn Morin, Councillor Doug Greig, Ludie O'Hearn, Councillor Keith "Bud" Swanson and Heather Martin take a moment to have their photo taken in the newly set up "Kitchen"

Royal Canadian Legion supports Chapleau Soccer League

Royal Canadian Legion Branch #5 President David Hamilton presents Chapleau Soccer League representative Rolph Fuchs with a cheque for $500.00

Royal Canadian Legion Branch #5 has made a donation to the local soccer league.

Our local Legion has always been present in both sports and group sponsorship amongst other worthy charitable causes

Dave Hamilton, President of the branch says 'The Legion has in the past and will continue in the future to support youth and amateur sport across Canada.

The number of kids playing soccer in the country has grown dramatically over the past few years and has even surpassed hockey in popularity. This donation will help offset some of the operating costs associated with league operations."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Last week in the Chapleau Express I read that our hospital recently asked a recruitment specialist to speak to the Board of Directors at the Annual Assembly to inform them about the importance of planned recruitment of physicians and other health care professionals. I wonder how many people in Chapleau are aware that we have three former Chapleau residents currently enrolled in the Northern Ontario School of Medicine (NOSM). These three students are entering into their second and third years of medical school, they are all doing very well and are scheduled to graduate in 2009/2010. From what I understand our community has yet to acknowledge these students in any significant way, let alone contact these students with a recruitment package to consider.

Currently students from all across Canada are being recruited earlier and earlier, with several students signing return of service agreements in their first year of medical school. Rural areas in Southern Ontario have been very successful in their recruitment attempts because they realize that they need to talk to students early in their training and they need to invest in medical students for long term health care stability. For a single student, four years of medical school costs upwards of $150,000.00. This accumulating debt can weigh heavily on the minds of students and is even more challenging for the students returning to school with young families. The parents and extended families of all three of these students reside in Chapleau and know the considerable challenges that each student faces as they progress through school.

We need to remember that the competition to get into medical school is considerable. NOSM receives over 2000 applicants every year and has only 56 seats to fill. This community has done nothing to acknowledge the three Chapleau students for getting into the school, let alone find out how they are doing and what their needs might be. The majority of the students at the Northern Ontario School of Medicine are from their own rural and remote areas across Canada and have their own home communities to consider when deciding where to open up a practice in future years. As our students go off to visit other communities this summer to see what they have to offer, we need to look at what we have done to entice future doctors into our community. We also need to think about why other medical students should consider Chapleau, when we have yet to acknowledge our own.

In closing, I often hear people say that the Northern Ontario School of Medicine is going to help Northern Ontario address some of the challenges of recruitment and retention of physicians in Northern Ontario, and I hope this to be true. During the first and second years of medical school NOSM students have 3 four week long placements in rural and remote areas. Many of these communities like Kapuskasing and Elliot Lake are bringing in students annually to show them what their community has to offer. That sounds like an ideal recruitment opportunity to me. Maybe it is time Chapleau started thinking further into our future!

Gardening from the ground up

The Tools Of the Trade

By Mary Lynne Ivey-Mountjoy

Having the right tools can make the difference between gardening being a frustrating chore or a rewarding and invigorating hobby. A gardener's five primary tools are: spade, fork, trowel, pruners, and saw. Tools need not be expensive, but quality does count. Cheaply made tools often break easily. Tools should be matched to the job, but also to the user. Make sure they are a comfortable size to use, or you might find yourself working much harder than you need to.

A spade is basically a short-handled shovel with a heavy blade used for cutting and digging. A gardening spade has a fairly flat, rectangular blade, usually with a flat edge at the top, used to push it into the ground with your foot. It is used for digging and lifting. Spades come in different types: a digging spade is wide and heavy, used for heavy work; a border spade is the same shape but smaller, used for digging or for lifting perennials and small shrubs; a rabbit spade is smaller still, with a slightly curved edge, used for working in tight spaces, but not for heavy lifting. Any of these three types can be used as the main tool in the garden, according to the size and strength of the user.

A garden fork has a short handle, like a spade, with heavy, nearly-straight tines that can be pushed into the ground and then prised upwards to lift soil, stones, or plants. A manure fork looks similar, but the tines are more widely spaced and have more of a curve, making the fork too weak for digging, so it should not be used in place of a proper garden fork. It is used instead for turning and spreading compost or manure. A garden fork is used for lifting plants and loosening or turning the soil. Garden forks come in two types: a digging fork is larger and used for heavier work; a border fork is used for lighter work, ideal for tight spaces or smaller gardeners.

A trowel is a like a mini-shovel, used in one hand. It is used for planting small things. Trowels are often sold as a set with a hand-fork, which is basically a mini garden fork. These are useful for loosening soil and popping weeds out.

Pruners come in many styles and sizes, and what kind works best depends on how big and strong your hands are, and what you will be cutting. Ratchet pruners or long-handled pruners are best for cutting larger branches, but will damage the plant if used for more delicate work. Likewise trying to cut big branches with small pruners will bruise and tear the plant, and is not good for the tool either.

A good saw is essential for pruning trees and large or medium-sized shrubs.

If anything is too big to cut comfortably with pruners, use a saw. A pruning saw has a narrow, slightly curved blade. It is designed to make a clean, straight cut through round wood, and allow accurate cutting in tight spaces. Handsaws are not a good substitute, as they tend to bind in large pieces, and are clumsy to use among branches and stems.

There are of course many other gardening tools available, and each has its use, but these five basics will get most jobs done.

Prélèvement de fonds pour l'hôpital

Angèle Desbois, Michelle Goheen et Gail Bignucolo

Le 28 juin dernier, des élèves du cours de comptabilité de M. Dominique Thibeault, ont présenté un chèque de 154,25 $ à Mme Gail Bignucolo. Sur la photo, nous apercevons Angèle Desbois et Michelle Goheen, deux élèves du cours de comptabilité de l'École secondaire catholique Trillium. Les élèves du cours ont eu à réaliser un BBQ pour la communauté pour ainsi transférer les acquis en salle de classe à la réalité d'une entreprise. Un merci spécial à Steve Chouinard, notre cuisinier. « Cette expérience a été un succès car à la conclusion de l'exercice, notre profit s'est élevé à plus de 150 $. Surpris de notre profit, on a choisi de donner notre argent à l'hôpital Général de Chapleau pour l'achat d'équipement. Ceci est un don bien pensé car on sait que cet argent sera bien utilisé et au profit de toute la communauté » de dire Michelle Goheen.

Your Propane Refilling Station

By Clara Lauzière Economic Development Officer

There have been a few new additions to the Township of Chapleau in recent months (myself included). This community is interested in finding ways to serve the needs of residents, and whether it is through education or overnight RV parking – we are working hard to move forward!

The Chapleau

New to Chapleau...

Education and Training Coalition (CETC) which operates out of the Innovation Centre is a great example of what can happen when different groups work together towards a common goal. The CETC board of directors has developed a partnership plan, and after years of working towards that goal, they are operational. This site is used by Service Canada, Contact North, Northern College, the Superior East CFDC, the Township's Economic Development Office and any other service providers that need temporary space. You may wonder why this is such a big deal...it is a big deal because it does not exist anywhere but here. These organizations that are partnering on the education side of this coalition are all competing for a limited number of students and for a small piece of the same provincial budget. For them to operate under the same roof is a testament to their commitment to educating residents in this area, and a testament to the commitment of the CETC board of directors. This facility is now a model for service delivery of education and training services throughout our area, and many other towns are working to create this same type of operation in their own communities. This is a tremendous compliment.

The Township has also taken the initiative on providing overnight RV parking at the corner of Lorne and Pine Streets. This service is being offered free of charge so that our guests have a place to park their motor homes. We have already seen many RV's parked there, and have heard a multitude of compliments of having this service available.

To end my rambling this week I'd just like to say – sometimes it is the small things that make a difference. To offer someone just a little bit of help – like a vacant lot to park their RV while they visit this town or the Preserve – difference and word can go a long way. Our will spread that we are hospitality will make a a great place to visit!

A new student award at Fatima

This month marks the last for Emily Windle. Emily was Our Lady of Fatima (Chapleau) special education travel consultant for the past seventeen years. She was a terrific resource both for teachers, students and parents. We wish her well in retirement.

Emily left a legacy by establishing a new award for students. She named it the "NEVER GIVE UP AWARD" and wants it presented to students who have overcome personal obstacles at school and who persist all year to achieve academic success. A plaque stays in the school with the child's / children's name on it for display. Each winner receives/takes home a brass medal.

The teachers choose two winners this year: Justin Black and Tyler Friend. We salute you for your persistence!
