Ecumenical Worship to be part of CHS Reunion

By Tom Corston
Part of the planning that has gone into this weekend's high school reunion has been added planning of an ecumenical Service of Worship to take place on Sunday morning, July 1st at the arena. The planning committee for the event has managed to elicit the participation of a number of Chapleau High School students and graduates as well as local citizens to provide musical leadership.

The Sunday service will begin will include the First Nations communities. Marjorie Lee of the Chapleau Cree First Nation will sing two Drum Songs, at the opening of worship and again at the conclusion of the service.

Two community choirs will provide uplifting musical leadership. A special Children's Choir, under the direction of Pastor Dan Lee of the Chapleau Pentecostal Church has been formed for the reunion. Some twenty local children will be an important part of the worship event. Also, a men's choir known to the community as "Men of a Chord" will also provide leadership under the direction of Velma Schmidt.

The planning committee is pleased that a number of former graduates of Chapleau High School will be sharing in the leadership of the Sunday service.

Bishop Tom Corston of the Anglican Church, who was preacher at the 75th anniversary reunion, will be the Master of Ceremonies. The special reunion preacher will be the Reverend Jennifer Broomhead who graduated from Chapleau High in 1993 and who today is the Minister at Front Road and Melrose United Churches in Belleville, Ontario. The scripture readings will be read by Michael Morris, well known in Chapleau for his weekly historical columns in the "Chapleau Express", Mr. Morris is a CHS graduate as well as a former member of the teaching staff. Today he lives in retirement in Cranbrook, BC. Mr. Robert Fife, well known across Canada as the Ottawa Bureau Chief of CTV news will also be a reader as will Pastor Paavo (Bob) Korpela, a resident of Island Lake as a youth who today is Pastor of Toronto's Finnish Pentecostal Church.

An important feature of the reunion service will be a special prayer created for the event that will include the leadership of local citizens from various cultural backgrounds. Each petition will be prayed in the language of the cultures of our community.

During the reunion weekend a large "Board of Memory" will be available for everyone to inscribe the names of those former friends whom we know at Chapleau High School who have passed on since the last reunion. On Sunday morning those old friends will be remembered in a special tribute led by Betty Broomhead who will also give a tribute to the late George Evans who passed away during the planning of this reunion.

Our hope is that everyone will attend this worship event fore they depart home after the reunion events, Sunday morning at 11 am.

See you at the reunion!

Welcome Home to all C.H.S Alumni

By Mario G. Lafreniere
The long awaited week-end by the CHS Reunion Committee is finally here. All committee members and volunteers will finally breath a sigh of relief Sunday evening as the weekend comes to an end.

Months of preparation will finally pay dividends.

CHS Alumni totalling well over 450 have made their way home this weekend to attend the 90th Chapleau High School Reunion.

Former friends will once again renew friendships. Some friends are gone forever but they will undoubtedly be part of conversations.

New friends will be found and old friends may not be recognized. "You look good!" will be resonating in the halls as one tries to read the name tag with a slight rise of the head to get the bifocals lined up. All in all, a lot of laughs will be heard along with the resurrection of events that you may or may not want to hear.

The last reunion was held 15 years ago. Hopefully you will all have fond memories of Chapleau for years to come.

Once again welcome home.

Cement mixer theft solved?

It seems like the cement mixer theft has been partially solved. The mixer was found to be in the possession of the Township of Chapleau.

The mixer was picked up by Township employees and stored at the municipal garage site. Reasons were still unclear at press time.

The mixer belongs to R.F. Monuments of Chapleau.

This occurrence is still being investigated.

Canada Day – Enjoy!

By Michael Levesque

What more to say? We reviewed all the Canada Day activities in articles over the last three weeks. Response was positive which we hope will translate into great public attendance, and a few offers to assist. It seems true that volunteers are hard to find. Without volunteers nothing gets done!

In general we were surprised by citizen support and also by the financial support given by local businesses and organizations.

Canada Day activities were planned to appeal to as many age groups and interests as possible. So far, so good! Our effort to include booths has ten responses ranging from arts and crafts to recreational organizations promotions. The amateur talent advertisement attracted a teen band from Sudbury and an acoustic guitarist and singer. Both are interested in performing a variety of music for several thirty minute sets.

So far, so good!

Let's finish with our one major concern – the Children's Parade. One can either sink or swim with a new idea. How about reviving a new idea? The Children's Parade is an attempt to revive some of the community spirit once common with past town parades.

We chose to focus on children because they are the next generation which will sustain local events. This activity causes great nervousness because we have received little feedback. Once again we appeal for your participation.

To quote from a previous article, "We haven't had a Children's Parade for years. The parade is for school children, but does not exclude parents or other family members. Participants are encouraged to dress up. They may bring bicycles, tricycles, scooters, baby prams, wagons, and pets. All must be decorated!" Prizes are awarded for best costumed participant. Those interested meet in front of Cedar Grove by 11:30 am. Remember, go to the Arena should it rain.

Thank you and have a great Canada Day!

Chapleau High School Grade Nine students chose between Latin or typing in 1961 as plans made for 'dazzling new building perched on a hill'

Chapleau Moments

by Michael J. Morris

When Chapleau High School held its graduation exercises in the Town hall in 1961, secondary school education was 39 years old in the community, and planning had just begun for the new school on the hill.

In an article for the 75th anniversary of CHS in 1997, George Evans, wrote that in 1961 the school was still located in the building beside St. John's Anglican Church, "but plans were afoot, and five years later, it would move to a dazzling new building perched on a hill..."

George recalled the school as it was in 1961 as he began his teaching career in September of that year.

"There were five regular classrooms, each equipped with a row of desks bolted to the floor, a large teacher's desk and blackboards.

"In addition, there were two labs, one of which had large working desks supplied with water and gas. Another room was equipped with typewriters.

"In 1961 the teachers' room on the second floor had been turned into a small classroom. In the basement of the building were the cool but fragrant latrines and a gymnasium with a 10-foot ceiling.

"The school's equipment included a record player, a movie projector, a duplicating machine that used methyl alcohol, and a library of about 500 geriatric books hidden in a narrow closet on the second floor.

George added that a student entering Grade Nine had to make one choice: Latin or typing. The rest of the timetable was filled with English, mathematics, science, history, geography, French and physical education.

Effectively, the student had no subject choices to make until Grade 13, and in order to advance to the next grade, he or she had to pass all subjects or repeat the whole grade.

As an aside, when I entered Grade Nine in 1955, and had to make the choice, I took Latin and never learned to type, even though I have typed something almost every day of my working (and retired) life. I still use my own hunt and peck, two finger method. I don't even think it was me who made the Latin/typing choice. I seem to recall that someone told me I would be going to university and have no need for typing as a secretary would do it all for me.

That actually worked when I was editor of the student newspaper at university for two years. I had a secretary, but when I arrived at The Daily Press in Timmins to start my newspaper career, I quickly adapted to a life as hunt and peck typist.

Back to CHS and the 1961 graduation exercises.

Held in the Town Hall auditorium a feature of the evening was 'Chapleau High Entertains' provided by the French Club under the direction of teacher Yvon Charbonneau. The club sang The Marseillaise, while Charles Tremblay recited two of Verlaine's poems, 'Chanson d'Automne' and 'L'Heure Exquise' and Alvina Beaudry sang 'Au Claire de Lune'.

Robert Lemieux received the Austin McClellan Award while the Allan Austin Memorial Award went to Frank Bucciarelli. Cont'd on P.4

Safe Kids Day and Open House a Success

Smokey the Bear and representatives from the Ministry of Natural Resources Fire Management team.

On Friday, June 8th children's service providers and community partners came together at the Moore arena to offer an Open House/Safe Kids Day event. Children's service providers gathered in the community hall and shared displays, information and some giveaways to families. Every adult and child had their names entered in a draw to win a Blackberry Playbook or V-Tech Inno Tab donated by the Chapleau Child Care Centre. The Chapleau Child Care Centre organized the event with the support of the Chapleau Children's Service Provider Network. They want all families in Chapleau to be aware of the services in their community, as they want families to know where to go when they need information or support. At the same time as the Open House, Safe Kids Day was being held on the ice surface. O. P. P. officers organized a bike rodeo and the Sudbury and District Health Unit checked children's helmets to ensure they fit properly. Every child that participated in the bike rodeo had their name entered in a draw to win a new bike donated by the Chapleau Best Start Hub and Collins Home Hardware. Smokey the Bear was there with MNR fire handing out information bags and balloons. Winners of the door prizes were Chantal Pullen and Tyson Noel and the winners of the bikes were Tessa Kydd and Jenna Rioux. We want to thank everyone that attended the event and a huge thank you to all partners for their support in making this event such a success.

In his comments, Luther P. Emerson, the newly arrived principal said, "With your help we can make Chapleau High School a cheerful and happy place..."

So many changes have occurred in the 51 years since George wrote about the plans for "the dazzling new building." Whenever we attended and/or taught at CHS we can share memories as we celebrate the 90th anniversary reunion.

Township of Chapleau launches new website

by Janet Broomhead, Economic Development Specialist

Just in time for Chapleau's big weekend of celebrations, the Township of Chapleau is pleased to launch the new Chapleau website on June 29, 2012.

Why a new website?

We wanted a website that is easier to use. Visitors to the site should be able to find the information they are looking for in three clicks or less. We created a logical site map, and streamlined the content on the site.

The website needed to be easier for Township staff to use as well. We wanted to be able to update content and pictures more easily and in less time. The old website, which was created in 2005, was difficult to change and required a high level of expertise. What can we expect to find on the new website?

The website is a place to find information. It gives details on the Township and its services, including Council Minutes, By-Laws, Recycling Services and Refuse Collection Schedules.

It provides general information on the community of Chapleau.

It has a Business Directory that details what Chapleau has to offer, including services and amenities, service clubs, schools, and lessons. We tried to reach out to all businesses, artists, groups and clubs known to us who could benefit by being part of the website.

What are the main changes?

Visitors will find a modern, dynamic design that is bursting with local images. One of the things we are most proud of is that every image on the site is taken by a Chapleau resident. We feel it is very important to give a good first impression of our town to visitors and investors, and we feel we have met that goal.

Website photo contest

A picture can convey meaning more directly than words, and is the reason we worked hard to source local pictures. We held a photo contest earlier this year to find images that tell the story of the community – be it through landscapes or people involved in community events. We built up a visual inventory of Chapleau's cultural assets.

The contest was proudly sponsored by Bignucolo Incorporated, Denise's Flowers & Such, and Full of Fitness who generously donated prizes. We are excited to announce the winners of the contest on the site, and in the next edition of the Chapleau Express.

Website is a place

We hope you visit the new website at www.chapleau.ca.

Submit your pictures to our Photo Gallery and share your memories of the Chapleau High School 90th Reunion and Canada Day celebrations. Update your business contact information if you haven't already done so. And please fill in our feedback form -- we need your input.

The website is a place that will change and evolve over time. It is far from finished. In fact, it should never be "finished" as Chapleau continues to evolve.

election. New Democrats worked tirelessly with the other parties and in committee and we were able to deliver real results for Ontarians in Ontario's first minority government in decades.

NDP leader Andrea Horwath captured the moment perfectly when she said that the Premier learned a valuable lesson: the NDP doesn't work for him. We work for the people of Ontario, and we will work hard to get results for them.

My NDP colleagues and I were sent here to get results this spring and we are proud of what we've accomplished.

We delivered for parents worried about losing childcare, patients worried about losing access to their local hospital and basic assistance for people stuck in poverty. We made the Budget better with a Fairness Tax on the very wealthy, prevented short-sighted changes to labour laws and brought in oversight measures to protect us from another ORNGE.

New Democrats have delivered for everyday Ontarians: people who are worried about their jobs and the rising cost of living, and people who want to build a better healthcare system. We stood up for people trying to buy their first home, and hardworking servers who are getting ripped off on their tips.

While we were trying to make the budget a little fairer for Ontarians, the Liberals were busy calling us names and attacking our reputation. But name-calling, ultimatums, and election-threat-bullying don't work. These tactics didn't sway us on the budget vote, and they won't intimidate us next fall.

These undignified tactics and games damage the reputation of politicians and democracy, and it dissuades people, especially women, from entering politics or even becoming involved at any level.

Our leader Andrea Horwath made it clear that while New Democrats didn't force an election over the budget, we still have serious concerns about the direction of this Liberal government. This budget is not a blueprint for Ontario's future. There is no job plan, and important government services like ServiceOntario are now under threat of privatization. The NDP caucus is proud of what we've achieved, but we have much more to do. I look forward to continuing the fight for Ontario when the legislature resumes in the fall.

The legislature has wrapped up until September, but that doesn't mean I'm on vacation. The summer is an important opportunity for me to reconnect with my riding and constituents. I am looking forward to spending the next few months touring the riding and attending community festivals and events. I am eager to spend time with constituents and hear from you about issues that matter and challenges you face.

If you have any events I should know about, please contact my office. While my summer is busy, I will always try to make time to attend as many community events and meetings as possible. As always, please feel free to contact my office about the budget, summer events, or any other provincial matters. # The aging of the high school reunion

By Renee Fisher

Sometimes aging can make us feel like we are naked, smeared with bacon grease and deposited near a den of rabid grizzlies who have just completed a research project involving the effects of a prolonged vegan diet.

While it might seem that there is no way out, know this: There is no way out. OK, now that we have dispensed with the fantasy of escape, we can move on to something that, while not technically in the category of "reality," is a step closer to it than the fantasy of escaping aging (or rabid bears): the high school reunion.

The high school reunion is a phenomenon that occurs with alarming regularity after one has graduated from high school. It is most often organized by people who have gained no weight or lost any hair since graduation, or who are vampires and so don't cast reflections in mirrors.

Herein lies the beauty of the class reunion: Unlike our hair, reunions do get better with age. Here are the reasons why:

We start by being defined by our ability to achieve the items on the I'm-An-Adult-Now Checklist: Are we married? Check. Have we produced offspring? Check. (or Check. Check. Check.) Have we become successful in our jobs? Check. OK, we pass. We also remain defined by the successes we were in high school. The athletes are supposed to still look like athletes. The cheerleaders like cheerleaders.

After awhile,

as the decades pass, as children grow older and leave, and as some marriages also grow older and leave, the focus becomes more on us. We may, for the first time since graduation, actually connect as people, rather than owners of marriage/children/career appendages. This is an amazing thing. People who used to intimidate us have aged exactly the way we have. The cheerleader now looks like a 50 or 60 year old woman, and we can throw our arms around her and revel in the squishy-soft feeling of her upper arms.

And, ah, the other benefits of the high school (or college) reunion. Like love. There are reasons why so many people find love at reunions. There is a built in level of comfort and of trust. These are the people who knew us before we made such complete messes of our lives. These are the people who take us back to the time when life was something to look forward to, rather than a series of choices to regret. And the ability to look at this person at age 50 or 60 and to see them as they were, knowing they are looking at us and seeing us how we used to be.

Like reinvention. For those of us who did manage to lose the weight/the buck teeth/the Coke bottle glasses/the dorky clothes, the reunion is a way to flaunt our reinvented selves to the world. We revel in statements such as "How did you ever get your eyes to uncross?" or "I was told you were living in a cabin in the mountains and running a shelter for pit bulls." I guess I was wrong."

Like friendship. Without the trappings of life, we get back to who we were with the people who we wanted to be with. We laugh like we used to. We are silly and irreverent and subversive. We tell secrets and we reveal. We eat bad food. Only now there is no teacher casting a baleful eye on our behavior, no parent to tell us we should be doing our homework and not fooling around. We are the adults now. It's just us, being exactly who we want to be.

Here's to the high school reunion.
