Kebsquasheshing Golf Club ready for action was officially open for business on May 5th.

This year's preparation of the course started on May 3rd when a cleanup weekend was organized. The following volunteers did a tremendous job: Yvon Noël, Gaston Demers, Henry Desbois, Susie Demers, Pierrette Noel, Roger Perreault, George Card, Doug Prusky, Terry Legge, Micheline Noël, Ron Daviau and Claude Noël.

"Membership is somewhat the same as last year, but the numbers may increase when the weather warms up", says Micheline Noël, club house manager.

"We rely on both memberships and sponsors to operate the Club. This year, Canadian Pacific Railway along with the Oddfellows and the Royal Canadian Legion are new sponsors and we are very happy to have them on board" says Claude Noël, Club president.

For a yearly fee, sponsors help support the maintenance of one of the holes. A sign with the sponsor's logo and name is erected at the tee off of the particular hole that they sponsor.

The involvement of these sponsors is vital to the continued success of our local golf club and shows a positive community spirit.

Aside from the obvious health benefits, golf is a sport that includes people of all ages, from the very young to senior citizens. REPORT FROM Queen's Park BY

Mike Brown,
Provincial Member of Parliament for Algoma-Manitoulin

SUPPORT FOR RENTERS

When families in Algoma-Manitoulin are in need of support to pay their rent, they can turn to the Ontario Rent Bank. No family should have to choose between a safe place to live or having enough food on the table, and the Rent Bank assists families when they need it most.

That's why I am pleased that Algoma-Manitoulin is receiving funding as part of the Ontario government's recent investment into the Rent Bank. Administered by committed local service managers and community groups, the Rent Bank serves as a safety net to help these families stay in their homes. To date, the Rent Bank program has helped prevent 13,200 evictions.

Just last week, Premier McGuinty delivered $5 million to help support local rent banks, many of which were running out of money.

What is the Rent Bank?

The Rent Bank was created in 2004, and to date has assisted thousands of Ontario families in tough circumstances meet their monthly rent payments. The most common reason low income families lose their homes is because of some outstanding short-term debt, and the Rent Bank program has proven to be a great success in helping tenants remain in their homes.

Under this program, an individual or household can apply for up to two months financial assistance with their rent. If an application is approved, the outstanding rent is paid directly to your landlord on your behalf. This program helps to keep more of Ontario families in their homes and out of emergency shelters.

One night in a shelter can cost up to $80 per person. Assisting families with their rent costs is actually a more affordable way to provide assistance, and it allows them to stay in their homes. In fact, the Rent Bank has saved over $7.7 million in shelter costs across Ontario. The Rent Bank is only one part of our government's commitment to address the issue of housing in Ontario.

In the 2008 Ontario budget, our government invested $100 million municipalities with costs of repairing social housing. Our government is proud to be part of the Canada-Ontario Affordable Housing Agreement, the largest affordable housing program in Canadian history. We are also investing $1 billion over 20 years for rent supplements to assist low-income households across Ontario.

Help Bring Them Home the Right Way

The Grade 7/8 class at Holy Family Catholic School has completed fundraising to support the dedication ceremonies being held in Toronto for the "The Highway of Heroes".

By selling satin yellow lapel pins the school community was able to donate $619.00 to the renaming of the highway. This money was raised in just seven days and all the students celebrated their effort by getting together for a photo with the ribbon as the theme.

All of Canada's Heroes are currently met along a 172 kilometre stretch of Highway 401 between CFB Trenton and Toronto by thousands of Canadians who stand in silence to show their respect and support for the ultimate sacrifice made by our fallen soldiers.

On May 31st this portion of highway will be re-named "The Highway of Heroes".

The Huron-Superior Catholic District School Board is proud of the efforts of Holy Family Catholic School in supporting this endeavour to honour our fallen heroes.

Notre terre, notre avenir : sauvons-la!

Par Mélanie St.Martin

Cet été, j'ai la chance de travailler pour FormationPLUS, le centre de formation francophone pour adultes, afin de créer un plan d'action pour le rendre plus écologiquement responsable. Avec cet emploi, vient aussi la tâche de sensibiliser la communauté de Chapleau à l'environnement et comment il est en péril, surtout si l'on ne fait rien pour le sauver. Notre planète prend un grand coup avec l'industrialisation et la mondialisation et c'est notre responsabilité de s'assurer qu'elle reste en santé pour nos générations futures. Chaque geste compte, que ce soit un petit, comme marcher ou prendre son bicycle pour se rendre à l'ouvrage au lieu de conduire, ou quelque chose de plus gros, comme prendre le temps de pratiquer les 3R, soit de réduire, de réutiliser et de recycler.

Je veux prendre ce temps à vous informer que ce jeudi 5 juin est la journée mondiale de l'environnement. Donc, pourquoi ne pas en profiter pour porter un peu plus attention à notre environnement. Il y a plusieurs actions que nous pouvons faire à tous les jours pour aider notre planète qui ne demande pas un effort particulier.

Tout d'abord, l'eau est une ressource qu'on exploite sans même y penser. Pour ménager cette ressource, on peut fermer l'eau pendant que l'on se brosse les dents ou prendre des douches moins longues. Pour chaque minute de moins dans la douche, 15L d'eau sont sauvés. Donc enlever une minute de la douche à chaque jour pendant un an équivaut près de 5500L d'eau de sauver! La pollution est quelque chose qui attaque notre environnement, donc pensez-y deux fois la prochaine fois que vous allez jeter quelque chose par terre ou même au dépotoir. Essaye de voir si cette chose pourrait avoir une autre utilité ou si quelqu'un d'autre pourrait en profiter. Ceci n'est que quelques suggestions sur des centaines que l'on peut faire, donc le 5 juin, faisons l'effort!

Summer travel TIPS

NC-Whether you're planning a weekend getaway or gearing up for a week-long family road trip, preparation is the key to a stress free journey. Before you pack up the car, Days Inns - Canada offers simple tips to help you keep your cool during the warm weather adventures:

Do Your Homework. Before embarking on your family vacation, remember to book hotel reservations well in advance. If you're looking to keep the kids entertained, make it easy on yourself and select a hotel that is close to local events and attractions.

Look for Family Friendly Hotels. National hotel chains such as Days Inn provide guests with quality accommodations at affordable prices. Wake up to a free Daybreak Café breakfast, splash around in a pool and take advantage of family promotions all summer long.

Avoid Holiday Weekends. Timing is everything. Summer holidays such as Canada Day are very popular times to travel. If you're looking to save a little money this summer, avoid peak times.

Pack Smart. Be sure to pack light and right - the less you pack, the less you have to carry. Travelling with light luggage will ease your trip and increase overall comfort level while on the road with your family. Many hotels offer guest laundry facilities or dry cleaning services.

Be Flexible. Give yourself a budget and decide on the type of accommodations your family will enjoy. Be on the lookout for travel deals such as family vacation packages or programs designed specifically for summer travellers.

Federal member of Parliament
Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing

Building a Canadian Economy for the 21st Century

Liberal Leader Stéphane Dion announced recently that a new Liberal government will ensure Canada remains a leader in the global economy of the 21st century by cutting taxes, putting a price on pollution and building a more inclusive society. Mr. Dion's plan received much praise.

CBC's Rex Murphy said that Dion is "showing more real brass than anybody else right now, and for that lonely and singular virtue, he deserves some credit."

David Suzuki said that "there's just no question this is the way to go."

Canada must create competitive advantages by lowering taxes on things we want more of income, innovation, savings, and investment and we must shift those taxes towards the things we want less of pollution, greenhouse gas emissions, smog, and waste.

Stephen Harper believes Canada has to choose between a strong economy and a clean environment. He's wrong. While the Conservatives choose to ignore Canada's economic and environmental challenges, Liberals will make bold but necessary choices that will allow us to turn these challenges into opportunities. The time has come to do what's right, not what's easy.

In doing so, we also will be able to help the middle class and lift many Canadians out of poverty so they can offer all of their talents and skills to the nation.

Even the NDP have been criticized by David Suzuki. In an interview with CTV, Mr. Suzuki said "I'm really shocked with the NDP with this. I thought that they had a very progressive environmental outlook." It is clear, however, that they do not.

Liberals believe in putting an appropriate price on carbon to deter pollution either through a carbon tax or a cap-and-trade system, but under a new Liberal government, neither solution would include an increase to the gas tax. In the coming weeks and months, we Liberals will set the agenda for a national debate on how to reconcile the economy and the environment so that no Canadian is left behind.

We hope the Conservatives join us in this debate in an honest way.

Canadians are tired of excuses. They want solutions

Brosseau, 49 ans, de Chelmsford, a reçu une amende de 1 000 $ après avoir entravé le travail d'agents de protection de la nature, une amende de 250 $ après avoir fait une fausse déclaration à des agents de protection de la nature et une amende de 800 $ après avoir pêché sur la glace avec un trop grand nombre de cannes à pêche. Les agents ont rendu à M. Brosseau son couteau à filet et son appareil-photo, mais ont confisqué le reste de son équipement de pêche de manière permanente.

Le 6 avril 2008, des agents de protection de la nature du bureau du district de Chapleau du ministère des Richesses naturelles ont vu M. Brosseau alors qu'ils patrouillaient autour de lac Opeepeesway, à l'est de Chapleau, en motoneige. L'accusé pêchait sur la glace avec 10 cannes à pêche. Chaque canne à pêche était appâtée d'un cyprin vivant et d'un hameçon pouvant attraper des poissons. Tandis que les agents faisaient enquête, M. Brosseau a entravé leur travail en brûlant deux cannes à pêche avec la braise de son cigare, ce qui a détruit des preuves. De plus, M. Brosseau a fait plusieurs fausses déclarations aux agents.

Le juge de paix Alex Spence a instruit l'affaire le 14 mai 2008 à la Cour de justice de l'Ontario, à Chapleau.

What you need to know when it comes to measuring blood pressure at home

(NC)—cause of death in this country. While physicians across the country can provide healthy tips and medication information, blood pressure can be easily measured in and out of the doctor's office.

Canadians today are independent, empowered and educated about their health. Home monitoring is an excellent way to work together with your health care provider, to understand what lifestyle choices and medications will benefit your heart.

At-home monitoring means you can measure your blood pressure in a comfortable, familiar setting. Checking your blood pressure at home helps you and your health care provider understand how to control your blood pressure on a day-to-day basis. It can also reduce the number of clinical visits you need.

World Hypertension Day on May 17th, will help bring awareness to the importance of monitoring your blood pressure at home. Here are some tips and tricks to help you get an accurate reading:

- Buy a blood pressure instrument that is recommended by the Canadian Hypertension Society

- Blood pressure monitors can be purchased at most pharmacies

- Ensure that the blood pressure cuff fits your arm. Choose a cuff size that covers 80% of your arm. Ask your pharmacists to determine the right cuff size

- Only buy an instrument that measures blood pressure in the upper arm; wrist and finger units may not provide accurate readings

- Before measuring your blood pressure at home, have your doctor or nurse compare your home monitor with the office model. Also, have him or her watch how you use the device to see if you're doing it properly

- Take your blood pressure at consistent times, such as in the morning and in the evening

- Use the same arm whenever you take your blood pressure. Remember that many digital monitors are meant for use only on the left arm

- Wait an hour or so after you wake up in the morning to measure your blood pressure

- Do not measure your blood pressure when you are uncomfortable, cold, anxious, stressed or in pain

- Wait at least two hours after a big meal, and at least half an hour after drinking coffee or smoking

- A full bladder can increase blood pressure slightly; make sure you use the washroom first.

- Rest and relax for 5 minutes before taking a measurement

- Sit in a chair that supports your back and beside a table that can support your arm at heart level.

- Keep your legs and ankles uncrossed

- Place the cuff on bare skin, not over clothing
- Tight, rolled sleeves

can result in an inaccurate reading

- Sit comfortable, and avoid talking while taking your blood pressure

- Take a second measurement two to three minutes after the first reading to check accuracy

- If the blood pressure monitor does not save readings, record the measurement right away in a journal

- Single or first day home blood pressure values should not be considered

Where do your tax dollars go?

(NC)—Have you ever stopped to think about the many good things your tax dollars do for you?

Imagine that your child has an ear infection and you have to pay for that trip to the emergency room, or you get a flat tire because the roads and bridges you drive on haven't been repaired, or you've finished working but get no money from the government to help pay your bills in your old age. These are just some of the services our tax dollars pay for in Canada.

Tax revenue helps redistribute wealth to such beneficiaries as:

- lower-income families;
- charities;
- students;
- retirees; and
- people with disabilities.

Tax revenue also offers incentives to large and small businesses, pays for police and Canada's Armed Forces, and provides social services such as:

- Old Age Security benefits;

- Guaranteed Income Supplement;
- Canada Child Tax Benefit payments; and
- Universal Child Care Benefit payments.

Programs and services depend on your tax dollars and the integrity of the tax base. The bottom line is, the taxes you pay contribute directly to your quality of life. There is more information on where your tax dollars go at www.fin.gc.ca/taxdollar/previous_e.html.

$2,050 fine for fishing violations

A Chelmsford man has been fined $2,050 after pleading guilty to angling with too many lines, obstructing and making a false statement to conservation officers.

and $ 800 for angling through the ice with 8 extra lines. Brosseau's filleting knife and camera was returned to him, but all other fishing equipment seized during the investigation was snowmobiles on Opeepeesway Lake east of Chapleau. The Officers observed Brosseau angling through the ice using a total of 10 lines. All of the lines in possession where baited with live with his cigar amber and therefore destroying evidence pertinent to the case. Brosseau also made several false statements during his contact with the officers.

Justice of the Peace Alex Spence heard the case in the Ontario Court of Justice, Chapleau, on May 14, 2008.

To report a natural resource violation, call 1-877-TIPS-MNR (847-7667) toll-free any time or contact your ministry office during regular business hours. You can also call Crime Stoppers anonymously at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

Venture into the darkness

(NC)—A home's crawlspace is often used for storage and may be a place that homeowners rarely explore. With their low ceilings, minimal light and often cluttered space, venturing into this uncharted territory might be a little scary. Though you may not have any idea what you are storing in your crawlspace it is important to know that air can flow in and out and can affect the overall health of your home.

Crawlspaces are built directly above the ground, which means moisture-laden air rising into the home from the ground below may lead to condensation and possible mould growth. This condensation may cause paint to blister, form stains on drywall ceilings or walls, or even damage your home's structure. An un-insulated crawlspace can also lead to higher energy consumption during the heating and cooling seasons.

To insulate a crawlspace, install Owens Corning R-14 PINK Fiberglas batts between the floor joists. Chicken wire or metal supports can be used to secure the insulation. Install 2" Celfort extruded polystyrene rigid insulation along the crawlspace walls for an added thermal resistance of R-10. Lastly, lay a layer of polyethylene ground cover along the floor to prevent moisture and soil gases from coming into the crawlspace.

A simple do-it-yourself project like insulating your crawlspace can help save you money on energy bills and help improve the air quality and overall health of your home. For more information on insulating your crawlspace, visit www.owenscorning.ca.

Planning and planting your garden oasis

(NC)—Gardening not only connects us to planet Earth, but allows us to enjoy the many fruits of our labour with colourful blooms all season long. Prior to planting, The Home Depot Canada has put together tips to help you plan and cultivate your garden oasis.

It's all in the plan. To determine what types of plants to grow, scope out the area to see how much wind and sunshine it receives. Next, observe key elements of good landscape design including proportion and repetition. For variety, consider a three-tier design with tall, upright plants in the back, bushy medium plants in the middle and trailing plants in the front.

power. Perennials have staying power, dying off in the fall, but returning in the Spring. They require minimal care and thrive for decades. The secret: plant a mix of perennials with different blooming times so you'll have colour in your garden from Spring to Fall.

Herb aroma. Creating and growing a small herb garden is an easy Mother's Day activity for the entire family. Herbs from the garden provide fresh flavour to home cooked meals, add a pleasant aroma to the backyard and can be easily contained. Think vertical and maximize space by hanging a pot of herbs from a hook or use growing poles for vine vegetables.

Try xeriscaping. This is an environmentally friendly form of landscaping that uses a variety of indigenous and drought-tolerant plants, shrubs and ground cover. This self-sustaining garden is low maintenance because the native plants thrive in their local environment, providing a habitat for local wildlife.

E c o maintenance. Rich compost is one of the best things you can feed your garden. Using a compost bin creates a cozy place for micro-organisms to convert organic waste into a soil-like substance. Also, consider using a rain barrel that connects directly to your eave trough downspout and take advantage of the season's downpours while saving on water.

Tobacco displays banned after May 31: Protects children, helps smokers quit

When you go into your local convenience or grocery store after May 31, 2008, you might notice a difference: no more "in-your-face" displays of tobacco products.

Tobacco use is one of the toughest addictions to break. It is the number one cause of preventable death in Ontario, responsible for 36 deaths every day. It costs Ontario an estimated $1.6 billion in direct health care costs and $4.4 billion in productivity losses each year. Everything we do to lessen its impact is something worth doing.

As of May 31, 2008, the Smoke-Free Ontario Act prohibits any display of tobacco products including cigarettes, cigars, cigarillos; pipe tobacco; and other specialty tobacco products, including chewing tobacco, Snus, and snuff, and most notably what are currently known as tobacco "powerwalls."

"Tobacco manufacturers will no longer be able to use these powerwalls as a way to market to young people and influence smokers especially smokers who are trying to quit to buy on impulse," said Dr. Vera Etches, Sudbury & District Health Unit Acting Medical Officer of Health. "Banning the display of tobacco products is an important and necessary step in tackling the leading cause of preventable death: tobacco use."

A powerwall is a wall of cigarette packages that is typically behind the counter wherever those products are sold. Not only do these displays cause impulse buying among smokers especially smokers who are trying to quit they also lead young people to think that cigarettes are as normal as the candy and milk they buy from the same stores. Research indicates that these walls can make it easier for young people to try smoking and makes it more difficult for smokers to quit.

But, as the saying goes, after May 31: Out of sight, out of mind.

The Province of Ontario announced the introduction of the display ban with the passage of the Smoke-Free Ontario Act in June 2005. At that time, the government outlined a two-stage process: the first stage imposed restrictions on the display and promotion of tobacco products effective May 31, 2006; the second stage provided for a two-year period before the complete ban came into effect on May 31, 2008.

Tobacco enforcement officers have been actively educating tobacco vendors on their responsibilities. Based on the visits these officers have conducted, a compliance rate of 100 per cent is expected in the Sudbury & District Health Unit service area. Province-wide, health units are expecting an average of 95 per cent compliance with the ban.

"We will continue our commitment to work cooperatively with the remaining vendors to support this transition, and their efforts to come into compliance as soon as possible," added Dr. Etches.

The tobacco display ban is just the latest step in an ongoing effort by the Sudbury & District Health Unit, in partnership with the province, to protect people from second-hand smoke, help smokers quit and prevent youth from starting.
